

TWO LYNCHED

Unknown Negroes Mutilated By a Mob in West Virginia.

Negroes are Leaving the Town Now on Every Train.

Lynching Grew Out of Murder of Chief of Police, Bud Wilmoth Tuesday Night—One Man Shot, the Other Was Hanged.

Phillippi, W. Va., July 24—Two negroes whose names are unknown, were lynched at Womelsdorf, near here, late last night by a mob numbering several hundred. The first black was shot and killed in the station house. The second was taken to the park, where he was hanged, then riddled with bullets, and cut to pieces. Both whites and negroes are enraged and armed, and more trouble is hourly expected. The lynching grew out of the murder of chief of police Bud Wilmoth, Tuesday night. Several other arrests have been made and lynching seemed imminent on every side. The dead blacks were caught near Bellington and were locked up, the officers fearing lynching if they were taken to Elkins. When arrested neither of the men gave their names. Negroes are leaving on every train. The lynched men were horribly mutilated and their bodies left on the commons.

MOTHER JONES' CASE.

Judge Has Postponed the Sentence Until Friday Afternoon.

OTHER CONTEMPT CASES ARE DECIDED

Haggerty Given 90 Days, Several Others 60 Days Each—Judge Jackson in Sentence Severely Scored the Defendants at Parkersburg, W. Va.

Parkersburg, W. Va., July 24—Judge Jackson this morning after concluding his decision in the miners' contempt cases, sentenced the defendants as follows: Thomas Haggerty, 90 days in jail; Wm. Morgan, Bernard Rice, Peter Wilson, Wm. B. Akley, Geo. Bacon, Thomas Lashavish, 60 days each. "Mother" Jones' sentence was passed till tomorrow afternoon. It is said that she will receive a stiff fine and will not be jailed.

Albert Repake, Joseph and Geo. Reoski and Steve Tonifke, Hungarians were passed until the afternoon sessions.

In the decision Judge Jackson severely scored the defendants and said the right of every citizen to labor for wages he is satisfied with must be protected the same as free speech and should be better protected than the abuse of free speech. He said: "The utterances of 'Mother' Jones in her public address at or near the Pinnickinnick mines on the 20th day of June 1902, should not emanate from a citizen of this country, who believes in its institutions. Such utterances are the out-growth of sentiments of those who believe in communism and anarchy. It is idle for this claim of the people to attempt to uphold themselves from not only just critics of their principles, but from their violations of the law and order by citing and relying upon the principles contained in our immortal declaration of independence protection, freedom of speech."

"I am entirely unconcerned," says "Mother" Jones. "I have no idea what Judge Jackson will do with me and I do not care. I am ready to go to jail if he sends me there, and it may be the best thing could happen for the cause of the miners, for if I am sent to jail, it will arouse public opinion as no other thing would do and the sooner public opinion is aroused the sooner will the miners get that justice which is due them."

"The American people are slow to act. They will discuss a matter for a long time. The cause of Cuba was discussed a long time before any action was taken, but when the spark was once fanned into a flame all discussion ceased and enlistments followed. So in this case, the cause of the miners has been discussed for years but as soon as the spark is fanned into a flame the American people will rally to the support of their cause. If, by going to jail, I can cause this uprising in their behalf then I will be glad to have the privilege of being sent there."

The cause of the miner is above everything else in the mind of this remarkable woman, who would rather go to jail than not, if it would help the workers. The greatest regret of her life seems to be that she has not the money to send to school all the boys she would like to who are now working in the mines. She has caused some of them to be sent to school and they are growing up to be good and influential men. She wants to send others and to alleviate the cause of the miners generally. All her money goes to help them.

"There is one thing Judge Jackson cannot make me do," said she, "and that is to pay a fine. I have no money to pay a fine, and I will not let any one else pay one for me. Of course, the boys would pay it in a minute, but I will not permit it. I will go to jail if necessary, but I will not pay a fine, because I can't."

"Mother" Jones denies having said the contemptuous things she is quoted as saying about Judge Jackson.

"He is not a bad old fellow," says she, "but he is managed by the coal operators. They turn him and twist him as they please, and he is prejudiced against organized labor. But he is not a bad man."

MITCHELL IS INDIGNANT.
Chicago, July 24—"Judge Jackson's decision is an outrage," declared President Mitchell of the Miners' organization when told of the ruling of the West Virginia contempt cases. "Labor is patient and long suffering and has remained silent when its wrongs are cried for criticism, but now it should speak without restraint and denounce this outrageous violation of all American principles. If the constitution of the United States can be set aside by injunction the courts are greater than the constitution. They are the law themselves and there is very little use for legislatures. This injunction of Judge Jackson forbade union men to walk on the highways or to talk to non-union men to persuade them to strike and took from the union members the rights all citizens are supposed to be privileged to enjoy."

"Mother" Jones is a trades union socialist whose only crime against society is to advocate a better society; whose only crime against good government has been to plead for better government. Instead of inciting violence she is an earnest advocate of peaceful and fraternal measures. The only extreme language she has been guilty of was employed in decrying the resort to violence, by those who are supposed to represent and uphold the best elements of society and government. Our speakers have violated no law. They were simply counseling our people on their own grounds. We shall appeal to the supreme court and shall at once ask President Roosevelt to interfere before this outrageous decision can be put into force."

MOTHER JONES' STATEMENT.
Parkersburg, W. Va. July 24—Mother Jones today gave her correspondent the following signed statement:

"I have been asked what I would do in case I am fined. I have no money myself to pay a fine, and will not allow anybody else to pay it for me. There shall be no compromise in my case. I will not surrender any of my American principles. I want the American people to understand that I will not surrender any of my rights to the courts."

SENSATION

Sprung by District Attorney Who Asks For Secretary Wilson's Arrest, Jackson Made the Order.

Parkersburg, W. Va. July 24—Judge Jackson today stated that the defendants would not be sent to the same jail.

District Attorney Blizzard sprang a sensation by immediately filing an affidavit that W. B. Wilson, secretary of the United Mine workers of America, has violated the restraining order by making an inflammatory speech at Clarksburg, July 7, and at Fairmont, July 8. His arrest was asked. Judge Jackson made the order that Wilson be arrested and brought within the jurisdiction of the Court. Wilson is said to be in Indianapolis.

SHELBY TUBE WORK.
Shelby, July 24—The U. S. Steel trust will transfer the Toledo tube works to this place.

FITZ MONEY

Is Not in Sight Though Jeffries People are Now Offering $100 to $300 on the Result.

San Francisco, July 24—With the fight for the heavy weight championship between Fitzsimmons and Jeffries less than 48 hours away, the betting on the result is practically at a standstill. So little Fitzsimmons coin is in sight this morning that Jeffries' admirers are freely offering $100 to $300 without being able to place an amount on any size.

MURDERER ESCAPED.

Cleveland, July 24—There is no trace of the murderer of Frederick Lynham who was called to his door last night and shot down. It is said, however, that two men are involved. The police are hunting for two men who shadowed Lynham's home for days before the tragedy.

TRAIN HELD UP.

El Paso, Texas, July 24—The Mexican North bound train which arrived here last night was held up near Bermeillo by three Americans who obtained probably $5,000 from the Wells-Fargo express messenger.

TOTAL

List Of Casualties In The Philippines.

DEAD AMERICAN SOLDIERS NOW NUMBER 4155.

THE ENGAGEMENTS TOTAL 2561.

Major James Parker of the Adjutant General's Office Compiles Some Interesting Statistics

Washington, July 24—Major James Parker of the adjutant general's office has compiled some interesting statistic regarding the insurrection in the Philippines. There were 2561 engagements with the enemy, more or less serious, between Feb. 4, 1897, the date of the battle of Manila, and April 30, 1902, fixed as the virtual downfall of the insurrection. The larger proportion of these fights were attacks from ambush on the American troops or skirmishes in which only small detachments took part.

"In almost no case in these engagements," says Major Parker, "did American troops surrender or have to retreat or have to leave their dead and wounded, notwithstanding that in many cases the percentage of loss was high."

The number of troops that have been transported to the Philippines and have arrived there up to July 16 last was 4135 officers and 123,304 men. The average strength, taken from monthly returns for the period of the insurrection, was approximately 40,000.

Major Parker summarizes the casualties of the American army as follows:

Killed or died of wounds, 69 officers and 936 enlisted men; deaths from disease, 47 officers and 2535 enlisted men; deaths from accidents 6 officers and 125 enlisted men; suicide, 10 officers and 72 enlisted men; murdered, 1 officer and 91 enlisted men, total deaths, 139 officers and 4016 enlisted men; wounded 190 officers and 2707 enlisted men, a total of 2897 killed and wounded and deaths other than by disease, 282 officers and 4135 enlisted men; total, 4470.

A large proportion of the deaths by drowning occurred in action or in active operations against the enemy. Major Parker makes the percentage of killed and wounded to the strength of the army 9.7.

MANY HURT

Railway Accident Near Malta on the O. & L. K. Road.

The Rear Coach Left the Rails and Then Turned Over.

Two Killed, Two Seriously Injured and a Large Number Somewhat Hurt—Nearly All are Ohio People—The Railway Track Was Soft.

Zanesville, O., July 24—(3 p. m.)—

A. J. Rathbone of Columbus, died this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Kennebec hotel in McConnesville, making the second death as a result of today's wreck. Wm. Lighthizer and Charles Bailey a wholesale grocer, of Marietta, are believed to be fatally hurt. Twenty-three others were hurt, some of them seriously.

Zanesville, Ohio, July 24—A disastrous accident on the O. & L. K. railroad two miles above Malta, Morgan county, Ohio, occurred at 10:28 o'clock this morning causing one death and the injury of a large number of people.

The following is a correct list of those hurt in the accident.

KILLED.
MISS GERTRUDE SHERWOOD, of Patton's Mills, O.

A. J. RATHBONE, of Columbus, died at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

INJURED.

CHIESTER HARRIS, seriously hurt. WM. WERNER, dangerously injured. The following sustained lesser injuries:

L. BURGHAN, Marietta.
C. L. BARLEY AND SON, Marietta.
HOWARD SPEARS, Marietta.

The accident occurred in this way. The rear coach left the rails and turned over all of the people who were injured being in that car. Nine of the trainmen and none of the passengers in the other coaches were hurt. The one car only left the track. The accident which happened about two miles above Malta was due to the soft track caused by recent rains. The train was running at a fair rate of speed when the accident happened. All the doctors in the surrounding country were hurried to the scene to care for the injured.

THE SHAM ISSUE FAILED

The Council Was Not Intimidated, No body Was Fooled, and the A.-T. Is Again Defeated.

Feeling the smart of defeat over its exploded trickery the A.-T. cannot disguise its chagrin by repeating its questions to the Advocate that this paper has squarely and quite sufficiently answered. The A.-T. tried to intimidate the Democratic majority in the Council by raising a sham issue, and it failed, just as it failed last spring, when it tried to browbeat the Council by slanderous methods, in its effort to betray the people on the water works question.

The A.-T.'s slanders failed of their purpose then, and all its cant and hypocrisy over the sham issue it has raised are utterly discredited now. The Council has not laid down and surrendered its political rights at the A.-T.'s demand, and it does not propose to do so. On this matter the Council has needed NO advice from the Advocate and none has been offered.

The conspicuous fact is that the A.-T. failed to make its sham issue work and it has been defeated in its little game to intimidate the Council. All those double column articles under big scare head lines have failed to either frighten or fool anybody.

The only issue in existence is very plain. Suppose present conditions in our city were reversed—the Mayor a Democrat and the Council Republican—how many Democrats would be allowed on the police force?

NOT ONE.

Where do Democrats get official positions of any kind when Republican majorities are in control?

NOT ANYWHERE.

If the American-Tribune had a City Council that would do its bidding, not single Democrat would be permitted to hold any position whatever.

NEW STREET CAR POWER

It Is Electricity Harnessed by a Magnet System.

GREAT SAVING IN FUEL CLAIMED

Invention of P. W. Leffler Is Also Said to Greatly Increase the Speed of Cars—They Are Always Under Perfect Control and Thus Can Be Run Faster.

Small electro magnets imbedded between the rails of the tracks were used to pull a street railway car in Chicago the other day. Unlike those in a trolley car, the magnets did not work directly in turning the wheels. They did not even touch the iron suspended under the car or any part of it. They acted as controlled tapers, says the Chicago Record-Herald. All this took place with a ten foot model car, accommodating six people, on a track 150 feet long. The car went round and round the track, backward and forward, fast or slow, at the will of the operator, who worked with but a single lever. And to stop it no breaks were needed.

A change in the method of street railway propulsion is the possible result. This public test, after many that have been made with apparatus more crude, led the inventor, P. W. Leffler, who is apparently a conservative mechanic and electrician, to say: "We either have the biggest thing going or else nothing at all. And I am convinced that we have the system which will do away with the trolley, over head or underground."

The fundamental idea of the new system is "to cut a motor in two." The electro magnets form one-half of the motor and are placed in the ground in a line half way between the tracks. The other part, the armature, is attached lengthwise to the bottom of the car. It is a long iron bar cut up into feet and so attached that the ends ordinarily are within an inch of the top of the magnet boxes. But the primary difference between the new system and the trolley car motor is that the electro magnets do not cause the armature to turn the wheels. The new car is not propelled by the friction of the wheels with the track, but by the invisible force of magnetism.

A dynamo is required for the new system. Each magnet is connected with main feed wires heavily insulated and bringing electricity from the power house. In fact, the electro magnets are coils of wire magnetized by the electricity running through them. But when the car is not running over them the magnets are not magnetic. In other words, they are not in the circuit except when the car comes over them.

An arrangement of the magnets according to polarity, first a north, or positive, and then a south, or negative, is the scheme for attracting the car and making it run smoothly. In the car, on the other hand, by the use of a small storage battery, which is the only electrical device above ground, the polarity of the feet of the armature is controlled. The result is that a positive or north foot of the armature is in a position where it is being drawn forward by a negative magnet in the track and at the same time pushed forward by a positive magnet in the track on account of the repelling force of like poles. In this connection there is a "commutator," which keeps changing the polarity of the feet so that the car does not get "stuck." However, the operator of the car can with one simple movement of his one lever stop it or reverse the movement instantly.

The great saving which the inventor claims is in the amount of electricity required. He says seventy-five amperes will suffice for trolley cars, while with the present trolley system seventy-five amperes are required for one car. He says the saving in coal will be more than one-half. It is also claimed that the cars can be run faster than trolley cars because they are always under perfect control. They can never jump the track because there is a down pull as well as a forward pull in the magnets. It is thought that it will be easy to run the cars at 100 miles an hour with safety.

In Watermelon Time.

I've no pronounced objection to the apple or the peach,
I rather like a berry, either black or straw or blue;
There's a quality or flavor I am partial to in each;
I can eat a plum or cherry with no small enjoyment too.
In its season I can tackle a nice orange or a fig;
There are times when pears or nectarines go promptly to the spot.
But there's no fruit of them all that suits yours truly like a big
And juicy watermelon when the weather's blazing hot.

I love it, cool and dewy, in its pretty, greenish rind.
When, fagged and warm and parched with dust an inch thick in my throat,
I see its rosy pulp—that is, I see it in my mind—
Its generous proportions, and upon the same I float.
But when that vision's realized I ask for nothing more;
I'm perfectly and blissfully contented with my lot.
I think there never could be greater happiness in store
Than a juicy watermelon when the weather's blazing hot.

I don't require a silver fork; a plate I'll do without;
A little shade, a butcher knife—these simple things I pray.
I do no fancy carving, but with reverence devout
I slice it down the middle in the good, old fashioned way.
I take a semicircle and my face therein I incline;
I shut my eyes in ecstasy; maybe you think I'm not
In earnest when I tell you that the finest fruit that grows
Is a juicy watermelon when the weather's blazing hot.

A PIANO TYPEWRITER.

Device Designed to Print What Is Played on It.

INVENTION OF BUFFALO MUSICIAN

A Buffalo boy, Paul Cienanth, is the inventor of what he calls the piano typewriter, a machine that writes what is played on the piano. The contrivance is patented, and if his plans are carried out a factory will be built in Rochester soon to make the typewriters, says the Philadelphia North American. He is confident he has succeeded in accomplishing what many men have failed to do. He was born in Allegheny a little more than twenty years ago. He has worked on the machine for six years. His grandfather, August A. Langenhahn, is a sculptor, having designed the Blocher monument in Forest Lawn and other noted pieces.

The young man is a musician and so knows just what he had to overcome in attaining success. John Schuler, a composer of music, examined the drawings and said he felt sure the machine would do all the inventor claimed for it. He compared it as being to the piano what wireless telegraphy is to long distance communication.

As explained by the inventor, the machine has about 3,000 more parts than a typewriter, but notwithstanding that is certain in its action and not likely to get out of order. It is designed to print in the conventional music characters just what is played on the piano to which it is attached. A lever serves to put the mechanism into operation. Then, turning another lever to put the time heater into the same time the piece is to be played, nothing remains to be done but to play the piece.

First a clef would be printed. Then automatically the time would be marked. Then note for note as the piece progressed it would be exactly reproduced on the staff marked paper. At the end of each measure a bar would be drawn on the treble and base lines. If a measure was not finished, a rest of the proper time would be marked. Every pedal movement would be recorded. Crescendos and diminuendos, slurs, sharps, naturals, flats and ledger and grace notes would be printed in the exact order of their occurrence. Mechanical precision would mark every motion of the player that affected the music. Nothing would escape the mechanism. At the end the paper would contain the music of just what had been played, even to the mistakes.

The machine is designed to aid arrangers of music for bands and orchestras. Composers, too, would find it a great aid. But perhaps the greatest result the machine would accomplish would be to preserve improvisations, especially those of the great players of the world. By it Paderewski's feats of manual dexterity would be recorded so that the sheet music of just what he played could be published cheaply.

With the true improvisors one can readily see the possibilities. It will catch the spontaneous outbursts of melody that so often result when one toys with the keys for inspiration. It will give to the world harmony, the music of the soul, untarnished by any evidence of studied arrangement. It would recover the lost chord.

For the year ending July 31, 1901, the mortality in Bombay City was 102.25 per 1,000, the total deaths having been 17,550.

NEW METHODS IN DIXIE

[Special Correspondence.]
Memphis, Tenn., July 22.—Dixie is rapidly outgrowing many of the antebellum industrial methods which have previously kept it behind the times. The manner in which the cotton crop, the south's great staple, is handled and utilized is an example of this spirit of progression.

Up to within a comparatively few years ago Dixie's cotton was shipped in slowly, ragged, ill bound bales, and the cottonseed after it had come from the gin was thrown away or burned to get rid of it. Today the south is sending its cotton to the four corners of the earth in neat, economic al round bales, which are easily handled and far more acceptable to export buyers. The cottonseed, which was once thrown away, is carefully pressed for the valuable oil it contains, and even the refuse is utilized as stock food.

Perhaps the introduction of the round bale is the most important feature of the south's progression. Over 600,000 packages of cotton yearly are now placed in railroad cars, in steamships' holds and sent to foreign and domestic mills, baled by this process. In 1896 but 4,000 bales were prepared, which will give an idea of the favor which the invention has met down in Dixie.

At first the growers viewed the "new-fangled" apparatus with the distrust that is common among the people to new systems which differ from the good old fashioned ways they and their fathers have pursued. But by degrees they have been examining the new process and one by one are taking their cotton to the round bale instead of the old compress.

If a man can save even an eighth of a cent a pound on his crop, this means much to him when the yield is so large that he thinks 5 cents a pound is a good price for it. With 9 cent cotton it does not make so much difference, but when the crop runs into 10,000,000 bales then the arguments in favor of the round bale are very strong, for it costs the planter nothing to gin his cotton or to wrap it, while he can sell it directly at the press if he wishes and put the proceeds in his pocket.

It is calculated that he can save all the way from an eighth to a half cent per pound by having the staple baled by the new process. If he has raised 100,000 pounds, this means $500 to his credit. It goes a long way toward paying the next year's fertilizer bill or toward settling his account with the grocery man or clothing dealer.

The round baling of cotton is one of several industrial revolutions by which the south is freeing itself from debt incurred by the expensive methods of the days before the war. It is an interesting sight to visit one of these presses on a day in the middle of the cotton season.

Around it are perhaps a hundred wagons loaded with fleece just as it is dumped from the baskets of the field hands.

Sprawled on the top of the mass may be one or more negroes fast asleep in the sun until their turn comes to unload. Then they start up the mule and drive under a shed from which one or two pipes hang. These pipes may be of tin or of iron and are high enough so that their ends are about a foot above the top of the cotton.

When the wagon is in the right position, a whirling sound is heard as the exhaust fan inside the building begins to operate. The air rushes up through the pipe and sucks the cotton with it in a continued stream. All the darky has to do is to keep pushing the mass under the pipes until all has been taken up, the work of a few minutes. Then he drives away, and another wagon takes his place, and so it goes all day and sometimes all night.

On goes the cotton just as picked from the fields until it reaches the series of four or five gins. Through these it is gradually worked, being separated from the seeds, dirt and any other foreign matter until it goes into the receiver of the press thoroughly cleaned. The seeds drop down into tin pans and are carried to the oil mill near by, if one is operated in connection with the press.

The suction fans also draw the cotton from the gin and into the condenser, which is the first section of the press. Steadily it is crowded downward by the revolving metal rolls which begin to give it form. Stronger and stronger becomes the pressure until it assumes the shape of what dry goods clerks call "cotton batting." Then it begins to revolve around a steel core, gradually enlarging, like the boy's snowball, until it is of the proper size.

From the time the darky's hands shoved it toward the pipes until now no one has handled it. The press operator pushes the lever, stops the machinery and with an assistant lifts the core and rolled cotton out of the bale former, as it is termed. It is weighed, wrapped as one would a bale of cloth, its destination, weight and the name of the press stenciled upon it in big black letters, and then perhaps it is rolled from the door of the pressroom into the freight car which is standing alongside.

Another up to date discovery in connection with the cotton crop is the method of ridding plantations of that dreaded pest, the bollworm. It has been left for a plain, uneducated Texas rancher, assisted by his wife, to make a discovery worth millions to the people of the southern states, where scientists and entomologists have failed after years of study and many costly experiments.

G. B. Boswell has just demonstrated to the distressed ranchers in the vicinity of Fairland, Tex., that he has found a way to protect their cotton from the pests that have been destroying the crops for several years. He does not call his method a discovery, since, he says, he has only used and trained and directed nature's own forces against one of the most insatiable and destructive enemies that the southern farmer has ever encountered.

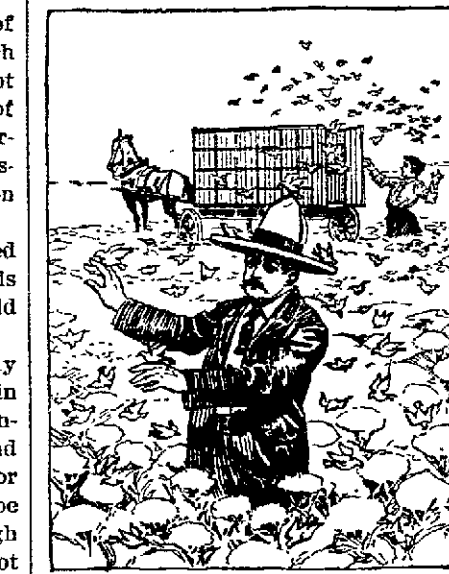

Boswell and his young wife own a small ranch near Presidio, on the Rio Grande, but are now hunting bollworms in the Brazos river country. Mr. Boswell and his wife are accompanied by nearly 2,000 small birds of two varieties. About 1,500 are white winged sparrows, natives of western Texas and New Mexico. The remainder of the flock is composed of Mexican canaries.

Mr. Boswell is a printer by trade. He was raised on a farm, and from his boyhood has been a passionate lover of birds. During his newspaper career he made what he calls a scrapbook of "ornithological information." Three or four years ago while prowling through old Mexico in search of rare specimens he met Senorita Flores Serano, who was also a lover of birds. This mutual sentiment led to a friendship which resulted in matrimony.

The young couple selected a favorable location in a sparsely settled region far out on the Rio Grande, where they built a cabin and set to work to collect and domesticate various species of wild birds. In the course of a short time they had four or five hundred Mexican canaries and white winged sparrows living contentedly in cages, and many of these were so gentle that they could be trusted to take little trips in the open air.

Just at daylight the other morning about 800 or 1,000 of the birds were turned loose upon a field of cotton of twenty acres. Swarms of the little winged pests that are supposed to mother the bollworm could be seen hovering over the field, while hideous looking bugs with snouts ending in a miniature lance literally covered the leaves and stems of the plants.

A flood of white wings descended among the drying cotton, the birds filling the air with chirps of battle. When a fly arose, there was a glitter of white feathers, followed by a chirp of triumph as the bird seized and ground the mother of a billion bollworms between its sharp mandibles.

In three hours the birds had cleared a large plantation of almost every trace of the pest and had flown back to their cage. Mr. and Mrs. Boswell have trained their great flock so that the birds are as tame as pet canaries, and they are hailed as welcome protectors by the cotton planters of the southwest. LEONARD BALDWIN.

The Grape Cures of Germany have proven to be almost infallible agents for the cure of Dyspepsia, Constipation, Liver and Kidney troubles and General Exhaustion. Thousands flock to them from all parts of the world, and report almost miraculous cures. Progressive physicians universally recommend them.

Duplicated in America

You need not go to Germany now for the benefit of the Tranlenkur or Grape Cure. The manufacturers of

Mull's Grape Tonic

after years of careful experiments have succeeded in incorporating all the best elements of the German Grape Cure in this preparation, and have placed it on general sale in drug stores all over the country at only 50 cents per bottle. This is the most important step in medical chemistry in many years.

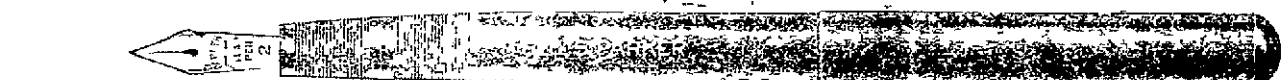

In the Summer Take Mull's Grape Tonic.

The heat of the summer tries the strongest constitution, and to those who are not able to go away for a long rest and change of air, Mull's Grape Tonic comes as a blessing of inestimable worth. To the enfeebled and sickly, it supplies fresh vitality and builds up the wasted tissues, infuses new life into the impoverished blood, and strengthens the entire human organism. Nor is it wise to wait until you are "all run down" before thinking to take it; you do not wait until the fire is nearly out before putting fresh coal on then why treat your own body that way? If you are well, Mull's Grape Tonic will keep you well; if you are not well, Mull's Grape Tonic will make you well.

Our faith in it is so absolute that those who buy it and get no benefit may have their money back. NOTE—If used with a little chopped ice in hot weather it will be found a delicious drink.

THE RAILWAYS

BALTIMORE & OHIO TO SPEND MUCH MONEY.

Many Improvements Are Announced From Baltimore—Local and General News of the Day.

Baltimore, July 24.—It is announced at Baltimore and Ohio headquarters that the Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Toledo railroad between New Castle Junction, Pa., and Akron, Ohio, will be practically rebuilt at a cost of $4,000,000. The road will be straightened and the heavy grades reduced to a maximum of 19 feet to the mile.

From New Castle Junction to Struthers a distance of 14 miles the line will be double tracked. At New Castle Junction, which is the terminal of the Pittsburgh and New Castle division, a yard costing approximately $600,000 will be built this fall.

A spur 8 1/2 miles long will be built around Youngstown on the right of way of the Trumbull & Mahoning railroad which is now controlled by the B. & O. This line will not only open up valuable freight territory but will enable trains to move more rapidly, the Youngstown tracks at present crossing several railroads at grade, resulting in many delays.

From Niles to Ravenna the line will be shortened by several miles and it will be entirely reconstructed and shortened between Ravenna and Cuyahoga Falls.

The work will be placed under contract in the near future and it is expected will be finished within 18 months. The completion of these improvements, the double tracking of the Conneville division between Rockwood and Indiana Creek, the grade reductions and double tracking between Akron and Chicago Junction, now in progress will give the B. & O. a double track line, with comparatively low grades from Philadelphia to Chicago via Pittsburgh with the exception of about 100 miles on the west end of the Chicago division.

Model Furnace Door.

The Pan Handle has received the model of a furnace door for locomotives that promises to simplify the duties of the fireman. The latch is so arranged that the door is held open while the fireman is throwing in coal. The device is very simple and not very expensive. At present the fireman is required to hold the door open by means of a chain.

BURNED

IN A PAINFUL MANNER BY CARBOLIC ACID.

Which Thomas Wharton Dashed in Carrie Troutfelter's Face—She Says It Was Accidental.

Thomas Wharton a well known character was arrested Wednesday night on complaint of Carrie Troutfelter, by Officers Carroll and Horton.

The Troutfelter woman was in court this morning and told of the trouble between them. They live together at the woman's resort on Walnut street, and on Wednesday had trouble, she claiming that he was drunk, abusive and destructive of property.

In the evening he handed her a glass with a clear liquid in it that she thought was gin, and told her to drink it, that it would do her good.

She detected the fumes of carbolic acid, and pretended that she was going to drink it, at the same time intending to get out of his reach.

She thinks that he was "bluffing," and thinking that she was about to drink it, became alarmed in order to keep her from drinking the poison he struck the glass out of her hand which spilled the contents on her face and arm, burning her painfully.

She does not think he intended to dash the acid in her face, or hurt her in knocking the glass out of her hand. Wharton was fined $5 and costs for drunkenness and riotous conduct. C. Jones was drunk and was arrested by Officers Horton and Bell.

A Man of Nerve

[Copyright, 1902, by C. E. Lewis.]

They had a good deal to say in the Tenth native cavalry about Captain Jack Benton's nerve. He had a record as a daredevil of a fighter, and his personal adventures were many and thrilling.

I heard a score of anecdotes about Captain Benton before we left Mysore for a tiger hunt in the foothills of the Ghats. There were six of us in the party, with twenty natives to mind the horses and take care of the camp, and all went well for the first week. We had bagged two bears and a tiger and knocked over a number of jackals when a native came in one morning and reported that two full grown tigers and a cub were lying up in a nullah, or ravine, about three miles away.

A good deal has been written about the ferocity of the Bengal tiger, but as a matter of fact he doesn't compare with the hill tiger in either size or temper. Neither is he as cunning. He has been hunted so much that he is more like a fugitive cat. The tiger of the hills seldom sees a human being, is driven out only by hunters, and he is utterly without fear. The Bengal may drop his tail and run away after facing a hunter for a moment, but the other will surely spring and due fighting.

The six of us set off for the ravine, where about fifty natives had collected to beat the tigers out of their lair, and we took up positions here and there along the banks. Captain Benton's position was opposite mine and about twenty rods away, and the ground was so open that we had a fair sight of each other. There was some delay over the hunters getting to work, and the captain lay down on the broad of his back on the grass under a tree while waiting. Instead of emulating him I climbed into a tree on my side of the ravine and frankly acknowledged to myself that I felt shaky. There was profound silence in the neighborhood, and while settling myself in a comfortable position I lost sight of the captain for four or five minutes. When I looked across again, it was to find three tigers standing over him, two old ones and a cub. They had left their lair at the first alarm and came trotting down through the thickets on the north bank of the nullah. The captain was in their path as they started to cross an open spot, and curiosity had compelled them to halt. It would have been dead easy to pick off one of the three beasts at that distance had I not been rattled. The sudden advent of the tigers set me to shaking, and my teeth chattered as I sat there in the treetop and watched their movements. The old male tiger first reached out a paw and turned the captain over on his face. He was as rigid as if dead. The female then turned him back, while the cub leaped over him back and forth in a playful way. Then the male tiger snuffed at the man's face and licked his cheek, and the female stuck him several times on the leg with her paw.

Although I was too upset to shoot, I could have called out, but I dared not do that for fear of provoking the tigers. They were in a playful mood, but yet they growled in a menacing way, and it was evident that they were suspicious of my presence. I hoped that when the noise at the head of the ravine began they would slink quietly off, and I listened for that with my heart almost choking me. While I waited the cub lay down at full length and began biting one of the captain's hands. He had torn the flesh with a thorn the day before, and there was an unhealed scratch. The rough tongue of the beast started the blood, and he had no sooner got the taste than he rose up, with fire in his eyes, and growled savagely. The old ones advanced and turned the body over and back again and struck at the bleeding hand with their paws, and it was evident that they were encouraging the young one to make his first meal of a human being. He was timid about beginning, but finally lay down again and bit and worried the hand as you have seen a dog worry a rat. The old tigers ran to and fro, whining and growling and encouraging, and presently I realized that I must do something or the captain would be eaten alive. I had just opened my mouth to utter a shout when the beating began. The natives were armed with drums, snickers, torpedoes and cymbals, and, though they were a mile away, the noise at once alarmed the tigers. The three were confused for a moment, and then the old male picked up the captain's body and started off with it. He did not carry it over 100 feet, however, rattled by the explosions in the nullah, he lost his wits and dropped the body and bolted into the thicket.

It was only when too late that I gave the alarm. Two of the hunters answered my call, and we crossed the ravine to the body. I was hopeful that the captain was still all right and more so when we found that his hand had not been so very badly bitten. But a brief inspection proved that he was dead. The body was warm and limp, but the heart had ceased to beat. That he could not have fallen asleep so quickly after lying down I felt certain. He must have been awake when the tigers stole upon him, and his idea would have been to "play dead." That he acted upon this idea was shown by his holding himself so rigid when turned over. I believe he was yet alive when the cub bit his hand and that he was waiting for the noise of the beaters to frighten the tigers away. He held his nerve to that point, but when the noise was delayed and he found himself being eaten by piecemeal he was so overcome that death came to him as from a bullet. A weakness of the heart unsuspected by him carried him off while he was probably bracing himself to stand the torture of the tiger's jaws and wait for relief to come.

ANOTHER GRAND SUCCESS

One More Laurel is Added to the Wreath of the British Doctors at 104 W. Main st., this City

Newark, O., July 15, 1902.

Editor Advocate.—I desire to put on record my testimony to the efficient and faithful service of the physicians in charge of the British Medical Institute, they are capable and conscientious gentlemen. They have entirely restored my hearing and my catarrh is cured. I have personally interviewed several that have been cured of other diseases of their specialty, such as kidney and stomach trouble with like results. I will be pleased to answer any letter of inquiry. Respectfully, Z. J. H. SNIFFIN.

334 W. Church St., Newark, O. This is only one of the many successful cases the British Doctors have treated since they located here, and their praises are sung on every hand by grateful patients.

They treat all forms of disease and deformities and a cure is guaranteed in every case they undertake. At the first interview a thorough examination is made, and if incurable, you are frankly and kindly told so, also advised against spending money for useless treatment.

Male and female weakness, catarrh and catarrhal deafness, also varicose, rupture, goitre, cancer, the opium habit and all diseases of the rectum are positively cured by their new treatment.

The chief associate surgeon of the Institute is in personal charge. Hours: 9 to 8; Sundays 10 to 1.

A Plain Talk About the STEEL MILL

Daily notices in the Newark papers for the past week have acquainted the people of this city and county with the proposed Steel Works proposition and the favorable sentiment toward this big, new enterprise is growing.

The Board of Trade has already disposed of quite a number of the Forry lots but some who are to reap the most benefit from the steel mill are hanging back. While this is dampening the enthusiasm of some of the workers, it has not disheartened them, and the work will go on with all possible effort to complete it in the limited time allowed.

The lots, it is well to remember, are worth the price asked for them and

Their Value is Sure to Increase with the starting of the plant.

One of the lot buyers will be given that $4500 ten room brick house and lot on the Forry place. See the photographs of this property at the office of the Newark Real Estate and Improvement company, No. 14 North Park Place.

If the people of this city want a new industry that will bring 300 more families to the city—the kind of people who earn plenty of money and who spend it freely—if the people of this city want to see Newark keep on growing and improving, if the business men about town want more business, if the owners of Newark property want to see the value of that property increase, if the taxpayers of this city want to see many thousands of dollars in valuation added to the tax duplicate so that their tax burden will be lessened, if the people of Newark have any pride in the advancement and development of this town, let them

Step Up and Buy 1 or more Lots

The Board of Trade's time is limited and the members are all busy men. You have as much time to call at the office, 14 North Park place and buy a lot as they have to hunt you up and solicit the sale. It is as much to your interest to see this proposition win as theirs.

If you will buy a lot or it you know who will, notify the trustee, J. S. F. Van Voorhis.

This is no charity. It is a simple business proposition.

It is worth something to have this big factory and all you are asked to do to get it is to buy a lot or two that is today worth the money. When the plant starts the lots will be worth more and you will get your money back. In the meantime we will have secured the industry.

Who would take back his subscription to the Jewett Car Fund and let the plant leave town? Not One.

Who would ask for his money paid for a Heisey lot and allow the glass factory to leave town? Not One.

Who, after the Steel Plant is established would take back his money paid for a lot and allow the steel mill to go? NOT ONE

NEW TELEPHONE EXCHANGE

Contractor Crumb in the City Arranging to Begin Work Immediately—Money Necessary to Completely Rebuild Plant, Making It the Best in Ohio, is Secured.

Mr. W. H. Crumb, the Chicago telephone engineer and contractor, to whom a contract for the complete reconstruction of the Newark Independent Telephone plant has been given, is in the city today preparing to begin work.

Mr. Crumb says that he has placed orders for the material necessary to rebuild this property, including eight miles of cable. Part of this material will reach Newark next week and by the following week he will have a number of men on the ground at work. Mr. Crumb's superintendent, Mr. E. E. Petrey who built the United States long distance lines through Ohio and who is quite well known in this city, will arrive in a few days and remain in charge of the work here till it is completed. The contract requires new pole lines throughout the entire city and new wires and cables, with a double line for each subscriber, thus abandoning the "common return" system, which is responsible for much of the "cross talk" on the lines. Mr. Crumb says that the company has in its plans and specifications called for the very best material that money can buy and that his contract demands that the work be pushed to completion at the earliest possible moment. It is a big job, however, to completely reconstruct the exchange and at the same time keep the old exchange in operation and it is estimated that something over 90 days will be required to finish the work.

The company, as has already been announced, has decided to install the central energy system in Newark, which is far in advance of the generator system, which is in use in both of the Newark exchanges. Central energy, which makes unnecessary batteries in the subscriber's telephone, also makes it unnecessary for him to "ring central." Central is signaled by simply removing the receiver from the phone, which lights an electric lamp on the switchboard. A "multiple" board will be installed in the central office thus abandoning the slow "transfer" system and giving each operator instantaneous connection with every subscriber on the system.

The telephone company announces today that arrangements have been made with the home banks for $40,000. This sum of money, together with that in the company's treasury, and including $2500 worth of new material—wires and poles—now on hand, will be used to rebuild the exchange. The company which will furnish the new electrical equipment will take all of the present office equipment and all of the telephones that now hang on the subscribers' walls and will put in absolutely new and up to date apparatus.

The new exchange involves the expenditure of a large sum of money, but the local company which has in the past 6 years enjoyed the liberal patronage of the people of Newark, intends that it shall have the best telephone exchange in the state of Ohio, barring none. The prices for service will not be advanced though the service will be so greatly improved that one will wonder how he ever got along with the old style system.

The Newark company which six years ago cut the telephone rates then prevailing in two, will continue the prices then established viz: $24 for business phones, $18 for residences and $12 for "party" lines, with not more than four parties on a line.

The company which now has connections all over the state also gives free service with its Granville exchange and has connection with its 34 toll stations in Licking county, besides connections with the exchanges at Johnstown and Croton, this county.

The new independent exchange at Utica will be started August 1. Next week Pataskala is to grant a franchise for a telephone exchange which will undoubtedly be connected with the new and up to date Newark exchange.

Miss Batrice Rugg gave an afternoon party Friday to twenty of her playmates and friends in honor of Miss Pauline Phalen, of Indianapolis. The afternoon was spent playing games, and a nice lunch was served at 5 o'clock. Those in attendance from out of town were Misses Nellie Alward of Columbus, Ellinor Beecher of Newark and Mr. Willie Smith of Pataskala.

Lightning struck the school house last Friday, damaging it slightly. Mr. Supphen of Columbus, is visiting his parents near this place.

Miss Edna Rugg received the highest number of votes in the ring contest given by the show and was presented with an elegant diamond ring.

WM. BOLLIWNE

Died Thursday Morning at Age of 80 Years at His Late Home on Mound Street.

Mr. William Bollwine, one of the best known residents of Newark died at his home, 193 Mound street Thursday morning at 11:25 o'clock, aged about 80 years. On the 8th of this month the deceased sustained a stroke of apoplexy, which was followed by a second one on last Saturday.

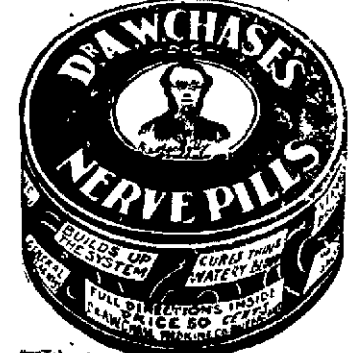

For many years the deceased had followed his calling that of a blacksmith, in Newark, and was known by nearly every one in Newark and Licking county. He was a man who was held in high esteem by those who knew him intimately, and his death will be sincerely mourned by a large circle of acquaintances. Besides his widow he leaves three daughters and one son to mourn his death. They are Mrs. A. H. Elwell of Mariettahead, O., Mrs. E. W. Kennedy of Columbus, Mrs. C. A. Cady of Newark and Frank Bollwine of Granville. At this writing no arrangements have as yet been made for the funeral.

PEOPLE OF THE DAY

Charles J. Jones, popularly known as "Buffalo" Jones, has been appointed buffalo warden for Yellowstone park. Mr. Jones is well known as the chief exponent for a number of years of the proposal that the government do something to prevent the complete extinction of the American bison. He has been a hunter and trapper most of his life and as a resident of Kansas became familiar with the habits of the buffalo and noted with much regret the rapidity with which the king of the plains was passing away. Mr. Jones was largely instrumental in securing the appropriation at the last session of congress for the establishment of a government buffalo ranch in Yellowstone park. It is this establishment which will be under his charge.

Fred Landis on Farming.

Frederick K. Landis of Indiana, a newspaper man, who was recently nominated for congress to replace the veteran Steele, is one of the five brothers Landis, all of whom were born on a none too fertile farm in Indiana and all of whom have made their mark. One brother is now a member of congress, one is a physician in Cincinnati, one is postmaster of San Juan, Porto Rico, and one is a lawyer in Chicago. "Talk to me about the joys of farming," said Fred Landis the other day. "I know all about them. There were five brothers of us on the old farm in Indiana and father. We had a team of wabbling old horses, and we five boys and father worked from daylight to dark to raise enough stuff to feed those horses."

"Finally one of the horses died, and that gave two of the boys a chance to go out in the world and see what they could do, and when the other horse died we all got away."

Dr. Patton's "Harry" Sermon.

When Dr. Patton, who recently retired from the presidency of Princeton, was pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Princeton, before he became president of the university, he consented one Sunday evening to oblige a brother clergyman to deliver a sermon at the Second Presbyterian church in the college town. Dr. Patton went to the pulpit with the intention of preaching about Zaccheus. While the congregation was singing the first hymn it occurred to him that he had preached on Zaccheus in that church before. He hurriedly consulted an elder and ascertained that such was the case.

Dr. Patton continued the regular service and rummaged in his mind for another text. While the congregation was singing the second hymn the preacher sat in a big armchair back of the pulpit and made a few notes on the back of a visiting card that had been handed to him as he entered the church. When the second hymn was over, Dr. Patton placed the thirty or more words that he had written on the visiting card on the reading desk and preached for thirty minutes one of the most brilliant sermons that he had delivered since he had been in Princeton. He never once looked at the card and left it on the desk when he went away. One of the elders, an associate of Professor Wilson, who has succeeded Dr. Patton as president of the university, keeps the card to this day as a memento of the interesting occasion.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

The Bedroom Candle.

A woman who has a country cottage says that whether one has gas, gasoline, lamps or electricity in one's house it is always well to have a candle in each room. When a big storm comes, either the electric light wires and poles will be blown down, connections or machinery stopped, power house flooded, or in some way the gas or electric light is cut off.

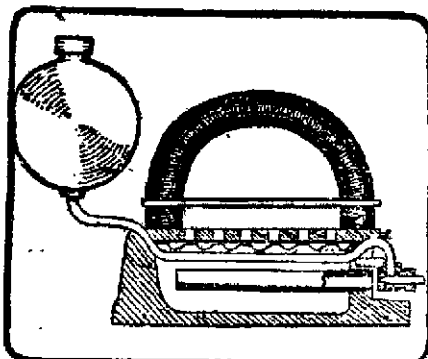

For some purposes, such as carrying from one room to another and keeping in a bedroom to make a quick light in case of sudden emergency, candles are safe, clean, convenient and cheap. Any one who once adopts the custom of keeping a candlestick in each bedroom will never abandon it. Have low, plain candlesticks, easy to keep clean, not easily broken and with a saucer shaped base, broad enough to catch all the drips and impossible to upset, and you will be glad a dozen times a year that you have them, and if you never allow a lamp carried from one room to another you will be less apt to collect your insurance.

For Baby's Comfort.

When there is a baby in the house, his comfort during the warm weather should be considered before anything else and every effort made to keep him healthy and good natured. His meals should be given regularly and his diet confined to the simple articles of food that you have found to agree with him. Even then he is apt to have an attack of summer complaint, and it is well to have a remedy at hand, especially if you live some distance from a doctor. The following remedy has been used for years and has proved very effective. It is composed of equal parts of camphor, peppermint, laudanum and rhubarb. When they are well shaken, put one drop in a teaspoonful of water and give a dose every hour or two until relieved. A tea made of watergreen or peppermint is good for the colic.

Self Heating Sadrion.

The improved flatiron shown in the drawing seems to have been invented especially to aid the busy housewife who has a large ironing to do on a hot summer day, as she can keep right on with her work long after the fire in the range has gone out and the room has cooled to a more comfortable temperature. Besides, there is no changing of irons to replace the one rapidly cooling through use, the one iron doing all the work without change and being at ranged to keep the temperature of the smoothing surface at just the right degree to suit the operator. The iron comprises a hollow chamber formed in the casting, in which a horizontal tube having perforations on the underside and a feeding tube connecting the burner with the globelike reservoir above. The reservoir is supplied with any volatile oil and in passing to the burner is adapted to be transformed into gas through the action of the flame, which also impinges against the comparatively thin undersurface of the iron to maintain the proper temperature. By adjusting the valves the flow of the liquid from the reservoir and the pressure of the gas entering the perforated tube can be easily altered. The inventor is H. B. Swartz of Wooster, O.

Attractive Bathrooms.

It is readily possible now to have not only a pretty but even novel bathroom. Wall papers come in patterns specially designed for bathrooms. There are tile papers, but in the way of fanciful designs there is, for example, an imported frieze called the estuary, which is an artistic panorama of ships passing along a narrow strip of water, with trees and banks in the foreground. Tiles are eminently clean, and a bathroom which has a tiled dado in white and green or white and delft blue will always look inviting. The walls should be painted in a solid color or papered to harmonize with the colors in the tiles. If the floor is covered with oilcloth, a tile or other design in the colors of the room can readily be selected. All the accessories of the bathroom, such as soap dishes, sponge receptacles—every conceivable requisite from a towel rack to a toothbrush holder—now come in nickel, which greatly increases the possibilities of making the domain devoted to the health promoting and refreshing morning dip an apartment most attractive in appearance.

To Find Partners.

After racking her brain one hostess evolved this method of finding partners and places at her luncheon for a bride to be. Each guest entering the parlor was given a pretty saucer or a cup. Partners were found by matching saucers with cups. When the guests came to the table, each found at her place either the saucer or the cup which matched her own again.

A Bleaching Hint.

When pillowcases and other articles have become discolored by being dried indoors in bad weather, soak them for four or five days in a large pan of clean cold water, turning them about each day. Blue lightly and finish in the usual way. They will be beautifully white.

CAPT. STRONG FOUND

Man Who Deserted Actress May Yohe Has Arrived in London.

DENIES HE PAWNED MAY'S JEWELRY

Talk Now in New York About Compounding a Felony—Miss Yohe Can't Forget "Putty" Strong, So She Will Soon Go to Far Off Japan.

London, July 24—(Bulletin)—Capt. Putnam Bradlee Strong whose desertion of May Yohe two weeks ago has caused international comment, has arrived here. He traveled aboard the steamship St. Paul under the name of "Allen." Upon arriving at Southampton he denied to the newspaper reporters that he had pawned May Yohe's jewelry and declared that the actress' allegations against him were false, and were probably prompted by her dismay over his desertion of her. He will remain abroad indefinitely.

MAY YOHE LEAVES.

New York, July 24—(Bulletin)—May Yohe sailed today on the steamer First Bismark for Cherbourg. She is bound for Paris. Her mother accompanied her to the pier.

MAY CAN'T FORGET.

New York, July 24—There is a possibility of further trouble for Putnam

CAPTAIN PUTNAM BRADLEE STRONG.

Bradlee Strong in connection with the disappearance of the Yohe diamonds. The settlement which was arranged between the Strong family and Miss Yohe, which resulted in the withdrawal of the complaint against the former Captain, is not binding upon the authorities. Disagreeable talk about compounding a felony is heard, and threats have been made that the entire matter will be placed before the grand jury.

Many believe that the relations existing between May Yohe and Captain Putnam Bradlee Strong are not so strained as had been thought. It has even been intimated that if the police had really desired the arrest of Strong they would have made a search of the cottage at Hastings. This theory, however, is accepted by few. The general belief is that Captain Strong's relations with Yohe were before they paid the money to pacify the woman he had deserted.

This was indicated by information made public by John E. Hedges, counsel for the Strong family, who arranged the details of the settlement with Miss Yohe and her counsel, Emanuel Friend. Mr. Hedges denied that Captain Strong was on his way to Japan as had been reported, and further said that it is not probable that he will go to the far East. Mr. Hedges added that he is convinced that Strong and May Yohe have broken their peculiar relations for all time. He said that Strong had given the woman up, realizing the extent of the mistake he had been led into. He would not listen to the suggestion that Captain Strong had been a party to any plan to wrest money from a doting father, adding that Strong would return to New York within a few days. District Attorney Jerome has admitted that the Yohe-Strong affair might be submitted to the grand jury, though he displayed no eagerness to raise the matter up. As to the settlement the District Attorney said that it could be proved it constituted a serious offense in itself.

"This has been the most unhappy experience of my life," said Miss Yohe. "I cannot yet realize that 'Putty' has been untrue to me. But I have decided not to see him again, and I shall not change my mind about that. I am intending to go to Japan and it is possible that I will be away within a week, but it will not be to rejoin Captain Strong. I cannot forget him but neither can I forgive him. I shall go to Japan, and it is my present intention to remain in that country, which is so full of sentiment, the remainder of my life. I shall never return to the Western world."

George Meech, an actor, of No. 215 West Thirty-eight street, has in his possession a handsome sword, which once belonged to Captain Putnam Bradlee Strong, who has gained so much notoriety through the accusation of May Yohe that he had wrongfully disposed of some $20,000 worth of diamonds.

Mr. Meech ran across a sword in a pawnshop. It bears this inscription: "Lieutenant Colonel Putnam Bradlee Strong, Sixty-ninth Regiment, from Bridgadier General George Moore Smith, Fifth Battalion, N. G. N. Y., in grateful acknowledgment of valuable services, July 8, 1900."

"I admired the sword," said Mr. Meech today. "I paid $4.50 for it. I used it all last season while playing the part of Colonel Bonham, and expect to use it this coming season."

WEDDING

Of Two Licking County's Best Known and Most Highly Esteemed Young People.

Mr. John H. Showman, son of the late Wm. R. Showman, and Miss Ella B. Hillbrant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Hillbrant, highly esteemed people of Union Station, this county, were married on Wednesday evening. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents and was performed by the pastor of the Licking Baptist church, in the presence of about 40 guests, comprised of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties, and a few intimate friends, at 8 o'clock.

After the happy couple had received the congratulations of all present, all sat down to the wedding supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Showman were the recipients of a large number of beautiful and valuable presents, consisting principally of china and silver. The newly wedded couple left on the mid-night train for a trip to Cincinnati and other points, and will return home some time next week. They have the congratulations of all their friends.

REPORT CAUSED ALARM.

Salem, Oregon, July 24—The report of an armed bicyclist resembling Harry Tracy, followed by two other cyclists, also armed, having been seen at Woodburn last night, headed for Salem, so alarmed the prison authorities that extra guards were posted on the wall as it was feared the outlaw contemplated a raid on the penitentiary.

Municipal electric tramway cars have no right to stand any longer in the streets than other conveyances, the Leeds, England, magazines decided recently.

GRANVILLE

"Trip Around the World."—Natural Gas Mains—Personals and News Items of the Day.

Granville, Ohio, July 24—One of the most unique and enjoyable social events ever held in Granville was the "Trip Around the World" on Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the M. E. Church. Several members of the church, residing in different parts of the village had fitted up their homes to represent the countries included in the trip. A large number of the members of the church and others took in the excursion, which was only 25 cents for the round trip, and a most interesting entertainment was given.

After a pleasant visit here with her friends, Miss Maude Wilson has returned to her home in Cambridge. She was accompanied by her cousin, Miss Alma Smett, who will visit for some time.

ACRE OF MOSQUITO NETTING

Pennsylvania Woman's Scheme to Protect the Peach Crop.
The peach orchard on the farm of W. W. Ramsey, near Alpine, York county, presents a novel appearance, says a dispatch from York, Pa., to the Philadelphia Press. At a distance it appears like a great white pillow or an apple orchard in bloom. The entire orchard, which embraces over an acre, is covered under a canopy of white mosquito netting. A woman's ingenuity has been at work. When Mrs. Ramsey heard of the coming of the seventeen year locusts, she knew that those mysterious insects would make an attack upon the peach trees, which at the time were laden with sweet pink blossoms. Mrs. Ramsey made a draft upon the nearest crossroads store for its entire stock of white mosquito netting. A sewing party was held at her home one evening and the netting was constructed into a canopy, which her husband and the men on the farm soon adjusted over the trees to the satisfaction of the ingenious little woman. The peach crop on the Ramsey farm will not be a failure, as will be the case on numerous farms where the peach trees are open to the attacks of the locust.

Saved a Woman's Life.

To have given up would have meant death for Mrs. Lois Cragg of Dorchester, Mass. For years she had endured untold misery from a severe lung trouble and obstinate cough. "Often," she writes, "I could scarcely breathe and sometimes could not speak. All doctors and remedies failed till I used Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was completely cured." Sufferers from Coughs, Colds, Throat and Lung Trouble need this grand remedy, for it never disappoints. Cure is guaranteed at Hall's Drug Store. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

The lemonade will be furnished on the grounds by the committee on refreshments.
Special cars will be run through to the lake at 7, 8 and 9 o'clock in the morning, and at 12 and 1 o'clock at noon. Returning in the evening cars will leave the lake at 6, 7 and 8 o'clock. Tickets will be sold at Y. M. C. A. office until 12 o'clock tomorrow. After that at the office of the Buckeye Lake Traction Company. Tickets will be good on any of the regular cars as well as on the specials.
After supper Mr. George Hamilton will entertain the people with humorous recitations and Mr. Harold of Allison's store will exhibit his "Victor" talking machine.

BIRTHDAY

Anniversary of Thos. Caldwell Celebrated at Brownsville—Head of Prominent Family.

Brownsville, July 24—An exclusive social function possessing many unique peculiarities, was the celebration here last Saturday of the 80th anniversary of the birth of Mr. Thomas Caldwell, for many years a prominent resident of this village. Mr. Caldwell has lived in the same house 37 years, and has been a member of the Presbyterian church 23 years. No man in the community is held in higher esteem. The affair of Saturday was a spontaneous tribute of affection from the four sons and the families of the three who are married. There were present besides these, Rev. and Mrs. Brown of the Presbyterian church; Mr. and Mrs. George D. Orr and Mrs. John H. Bell. It is a peculiarly gratifying fact that the entire immediate relationship including nine grand children, are living and were together for the first time. It was the original intention of Mrs. Caldwell to spread the feast on the lawn, but the weather not being favorable it was laid in the spacious dining room. As a generous hostess is locally celebrated as an adept in the preparation of things gastronomic, it is superfluous to say that this feature of the occasion was a superlative success. After the dinner a prayer service, conducted by Rev. Mr. Brown, was held in the parlor. Mr. Brown spoke feelingly of the long and useful life of the venerable guest of honor and congratulated him upon the devotion shown by his sons. Rev. C. W. Caldwell, of Chicago, O., a son, made a few appropriate remarks, from a full heart, and the assembly sang "Blest be the Tie That Binds."
Mr. Caldwell was handsomely remembered, one of the most acceptable presents being an easy chair of splendid workmanship.
Mr. Caldwell was born on what is now East Broad street, Columbus, July 19, 1822, and has spent his entire life, with the exception of a term of service during the civil war, in central Ohio. The four sons are John W., of Adams Mills, who follows the trade of his father; Hartzell, an attorney of the supreme court, and a well known newspaper man of Columbus; Charles W., of Chicago, a minister of the Presbyterian faith, and Arthur W., a merchant, at Mt. Perry. Miss Anna Orr who is unusually proficient with the kodak, took several snapshots of the family and guests, and the affair closed with many expressions of good will and the universal wish that Mr. Caldwell may see many more birthday anniversaries before the angel of death touches his forehead and says "Come up higher."

Hon. Wm. Bell Jr.

Mr. Sam C. Bell has received the following letter from C. J. Barber, an old Newark boy, who for some years has been located at Chicago Junction.
Chicago Junction, O., July 23, 1902.
Sam C. Bell, Newark, O.
Friend Sam—I was greatly shocked to read of your father's death in this week's Advocate. If the world was made up of such men as William Bell Jr., what a paradise it would be to live in. Sam, accept my sympathy in the loss of your parent, for it is truly a loss to the city of Newark and the State.
Yours truly,
C. J. BARBER.

I have been sick for the past six years with dyspepsia and general weakness. I have used Peptonized Port and it has done wonders for me. I am well and able to eat, work and sleep well. I cannot say too much for Peptonized Port.
SIMON ROBBINS.

Winsted, Forsyth Co., N. C.
Gentlemen—I desire to express to you my thanks for your wonderful Peptonized Port. I was troubled with dyspepsia for five years previous to commencing to use your Port, some six months ago. My cure has been wonderful. I am pastor of the First Methodist Church of this place and my congregation can testify to the great virtues of your preparation.
REV. H. WINTHROP.

CHANGE OF MIND.
I declined to insert your advertisement of Walther's Peptonized Port last year, because I thought it might not be promotive of the cause of temperance, but find it is a very valuable medicine, myself and wife having been greatly benefited by it, and I take great pleasure in saying it.

HINTS FOR FARMERS

Points on Clover Hay.

Every year there are many questions about curing hay. Early cut grass contains more moisture than that which stands until dead ripe and is harder to cure. Hay is grass with the water taken out of it. This water is removed by the wind, a hot breeze while the sun is shining giving ideal haymaking conditions. The easiest way for the water to be taken from the plant is through the leaves. When these leaves are dried and killed, first of all there will be considerable water left in the stem, and this will move out very slowly. When the leaves are left fresh, they suck or pump the water rapidly from the stem and thus dry it quickly. Cut down two trees in full leaf. From one take every green leaf at once and let the leaves on the other slowly wilt and die. You will find the first tree wet and soggy, while the other is dry, having been sucked or pumped by the leaves. These things explain why the best hay is made in the shade. The leaves are not withered, but keep on pumping water from the stems and "sweating" it out. Clover especially is best cured in the cock. Its thin, broad leaves are quickly wilted in the hot sun, while in the pile they keep at work. We must remember that some samples of early cut clover contain over 1,000 pounds of water in every ton and that 1,500 pounds of the water must be taken out in a short time. One reason why the tedder makes such a useful hay tool is that it breaks the stem and gives the water a chance to escape.

Fighting Insects and Pests.

The fruit grower today must be a successful fighter of insects and all pests of trees and vines, and unless he carries the war on intermittently he cannot expect profit. It is necessary to put aside a certain amount of money from profits every year to be expended on poisonous sprays for the following season. One must have a fairly fair knowledge of the nature of the different insects most destructive to his particular fruit. This does not mean a scientific education.

There are not more than a dozen insects that threaten most fruits, and these can be studied so that one will know just when to look for their appearance and how best to prevent their destructive work. Too many wait until it is too late to avert losses. The first appearance of the insects is generally anything but alarming, and one is inclined to believe that they will not amount to much. But unfortunately their multiplication is very rapid, and before the fruit grower realizes it his crops are nearly ruined. Sometimes the danger is even more insidious than this.—American Cultivator.

Transplanting Plants.

There is always much difficulty in germinating garden seeds in dry and hot weather, and on this account the fall garden is often a failure. But this difficulty can be easily overcome and plants raised for transplanting in the midst of the severest drought. Make a deep bed in mellow soil and tramp it well. Then water it heavily, and as soon as it is in good condition for working rake and lay a plank carefully over the row or rows and walk on the plank to make it fit the ground closely. It may be necessary to turn the planks over once a day to prevent warping. When the time rolls around when the plants ought to come up, raise the planks every evening to see what's going on beneath. As soon as the plants appear raise one side of the planks and prop them up to give the young plants room. As the plants grow raise the planks higher and higher until the plants are sufficiently rooted to stand without protection. Transplant after a rain.

Breaking Broody Hens.

We have tried many different ways to break hens from sitting. The best and most humane is to place the hen in an inclosure alone or with others which are similarly conditioned. There should be no nest-boxes in this prison yard to tempt the hen, and she should be kept there, properly fed and watered, until she promises to reform her ways. Coupling is a failure in many cases, as the hen will sit in the coop. Some poultry writers have made the astounding discovery that there are hens that will sit on a doorknob. Many will sit on the ground or on a board or in any place where they may be placed. We have hens now which have sat until displaced on the perch and another on the dropping board under the perch. Many hens will sit as faithfully without as with eggs, doorknobs or any other object under their wings.

Catch and Odd Time Crops.

In the states in which wheat, oats, rye, etc., are harvested by the middle of June such plants as the cowpeas and soy bean may be sown after these green crops are harvested and mature in time to be followed by these same grain crops or by grasses, clover or any crop adapted to fall sowing.

Cowpeas and soy beans sown after the harvesting of grain furnish an excellent and large quantity of stock food in August, September and October. Canada field peas and crimson clover sown in July or early in August supplement the cowpeas and soy beans from October or November until spring.—American Agriculturist.

Profit in Sheep.

Every farmer who can make a flock of good sheep profitable. The flock, of course, should be proportioned in number to the size of the farm. Good mutton is always salable. So is good wool. And this will be the case as long as people are fond of meat and until winters cease to make woolen clothing necessary for comfort. At the present time both of these products are profitable.

Newark Plays Next Monday.

Don't forget the great game to be played between the Newark team and the Unions of Columbus at the East End Park next Monday afternoon. The Unions is one of the fastest amateur base ball clubs in Ohio, having played and defeated the Lazarus, Victors and other strong Columbus teams. The game will be well worth the price of admission, and there is no reason on earth why it should not be well patronized. There are many lovers of the game in Newark, at least who claim to be. They now have an opportunity of seeing good base ball this season if they will give the men at the head of the team some encouragement. They are not in the game to make money, but do want to pay expenses. All the profits are divided with the players. There are many who have not been over to see a game this season. Some object to the location of the grounds, others imagine that one has to walk a mile or two to the park, while still others venture to sagely criticize a team they have never seen play. As a matter of fact the ball ground is not more than a three minute walk from the street car and all who go Monday will see a great game.

Philadelphia's Great Work.

Speaking of team work, and its effect in winning games, the Philadelphia Athletics are an example. Connie Mack started the season without stars as Lajoie, Delehanty, Wolverton, Bernhard, Flick, Frazer, and others. He got together a band of youngsters, instilled the idea of team work into them, with the result that Philadelphia is today fighting with Comiskey's champions for the lead in the great American League race. The old Philadelphia sluggers never did play the game that is being put up by the Athletics. The result of the team's great work is an increased interest in the Quaker in the box office receipts.

Athletics in Second Place.

The Chicago White Sox lost again Wednesday, this time to the reorganized Baltimore, which brings them still closer to the bunch. St. Louis lost to Boston, and dropped to third place, while Philadelphia took second place by beating Detroit. The first four clubs in the American League are neck and neck, and the race is a beauty. The standing follows:

Clubs.	Won	Lost	Pct.
Chicago	42	31	.575
Philadelphia	41	32	.561
St. Louis	41	33	.554
Boston	42	36	.538
Washington	37	40	.480
Cleveland	35	43	.448
Baltimore	34	44	.438
Detroit	31	43	.419

Sporting Notes.

Dineen of the Boston American team has pitched great ball this season, but in hard luck. Whenever he is in the box the opposing twirler seems to be at his best and the result has been a number of extra inning games. Dineen losing oftentimes by poor fielding or stupid base running behind him. On Wednesday the Bostonian allowed but seven hits, while 15 were made off Donahue by Boston, yet the game went thirteen innings, Dineen finally winning 3 to 2.

Shields of Baltimore, pitched the first seven innings of Wednesday's game against the Chicago club without giving a hit or a run. With the last four innings of Tuesday's game with Detroit he performed the feat of pitching eleven straight innings without a hit or run.

The St. Louis team batted both Doherty and Leever hard Wednesday and had no trouble in beating the champions, 10 to 4. This is almost a record against the Pirates this season.

Washington has a great band of hitters and if they had team work down as have the Athletics they would stand high in the race.

McGraw's New York team beat Brooklyn 4 to 1, Wednesday. McGraw is getting a good team, and is starting off well but we venture the prediction that the rowdy league will be mixed up with the umpire before many weeks with the result that he will be put out of the game, and the team will become demoralized and not better their standing nor standard of play. Should they be successful it will be the merit of the team, in spite of McGraw's handicap, rather than because of any managerial excellence, or exceptional playing ability on McGraw's part.

GUESSING CONTEST.

Guessing Contest!

CLOSES AT 9 P. M. SATURDAY NIGHT, AUGUST 16.

Great interest has been aroused in the Advocate's Guessing Contest as is evidenced by the many guesses that are daily received on the blank coupons clipped from copies of the Advocate.

Many people are guessing two or three times. One may guess as often as he wishes, providing each guess is accompanied by payment for five weeks' subscription to the paper.

REMEMBER, $200.00

Has been deposited by the Advocate for free distribution among readers of this paper who make the best guesses on the actual population of Newark on June 1, 1902. The one who makes the best guess will be given $50, second $25, third $20, fourth $15, fifth $10, to the next five nearest $5 each, to the next ten nearest $2.50 each, and to the next fifteen nearest $2 each.

THIRTY-FIVE CASH PRIZES

Aggregating $200, given free to Advocate readers, who are required only to pay the sum they may owe for back subscription and five weeks in advance for the paper.

In case of a tie prizes will be divided equally.

Guess as often as you wish. For every 50 cents paid on advance subscription to the Daily Advocate you may have one guess.

In 1890 Newark had 14,289 people and in 1900 the official census was 18,157. What is the population June 1, 1902? The census is being carefully and accurately taken by experienced men. No person in the Advocate's employ knows anything about the census returns and no employee is permitted to enter the contest.

SEASHORE RESORTS—Low-Rate Excursion to Atlantic City, N. J., and other Seaside Resorts, via the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. In order to give its patrons an opportunity to visit the seashore at a nominal cost, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company will sell low-rate excursion tickets to Atlantic City, Ocean City, Cape May and Sea Isle City, N. J., and Ocean City, Md., on Thursday, August 7, 1902.

Atlantic City, N. J., the Acropolis of the hundred or more resorts along the Atlantic Coast, is the largest, richest and most popular, and in short the finest watering place in the world. Its season never comes to an end, for the proprietors of its hotels do not reckon upon making the profits of one season carry them over to the next. There are over 1,200 hotels and cottages, some magnificent in detail, others less pretentious, where the rich can find luxury and the humble be comfortably provided for. The splendid (splendid, or boardwalk) lines the entire city along the ocean front. The surf bathing which has made Atlantic City famous, is one of the wonders of the world. The sight during the bathing hours defies description; men, women and children in bathing costumes, of varied hues, form a picture to be seen only at Atlantic City.

Aside from the seaside features, Atlantic City has amusements of every kind. Great iron piers extend hundreds of feet into the ocean. Every pier has its summer theatre and band stands, and for a nominal price one may enjoy the comfortable chairs of the pier and listen to the music of the bands throughout the entire day, if he so wishes it.

Tickets will be available on all regular trains, and will be good for return twelve days, including date of sale, thus giving ample time for an enjoyable outing. Stop-over without limit of ticket will be allowed at Washington, D. C., on return trip.

CALIFORNIA—July 28 and 29 and August 1 to 10, inclusive, the Balt-more and Ohio Railroad company will sell low rate excursion tickets to San Francisco and Los Angeles, Cal., account Biennial Meeting, Knights of Pythias, good for return until September 30, 1902.

SALT LAKE CITY—August 6 to 9, inclusive, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company will sell low rate excursion tickets to Salt Lake City, Utah, account Grand Lodge B. P. O. Elks, good for return until September 30, 1902.

PUT-IN-BAY—August 11 to 14, inclusive, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company will sell excursion tickets from all local stations west of the Ohio river to Put-in-Bay, Ohio, at rate of one fare for the round trip, account Knights of Columbus. Tickets will be good for return until August 18, 1902.

BADLY HURT

IS THE UNCLE OF HENRY FOUTZ OF THIS CITY.

Edward Stewart is Improving However, and His Recovery is Expected—Shot by Yocums.

In a family altercation in Morgan county, last Sunday, Edward Stewart an uncle of Mr. Harry Foutz of this city, being a brother of Mr. Foutz's mother, was shot and seriously injured by Lin Yocums.

Stewart lives on the farm of John Guyton, a brother-in-law of Yocum's. Mrs. Yocum's mother was to be removed to the home of her daughter, and on Sunday they went to Guyton's to get the old lady and take her to their home.

A quarrel took place on the porch and Mrs. Clara Guyton slapped her brother-in-law, Yocum in the face. Stewart came down the stairway and mixed in the affair, when Yocum shot him in the right breast, the ball a 32 calibre, entering between the fourth and fifth ribs, penetrating the thorax. Dr. Leepers failed to find the ball. On percussion he found dullness on the side and back as far down as the lung extended. The wound was dressed, the patient reclined on pillows and chairs, as he could not be placed prone in bed.

Mr. Yocum claims that he shot in self defense, and to save his own life, while Mr. Stewart claims that provocation had not been given when the shot was fired.

On Wednesday night Stewart was still improving and hopes are given that he will recover.

Yocum is in jail, and hopes Stewart will recover, saying he has no hard feeling toward him.

Mr. Foutz and his mother went to McConnelville Wednesday to see Mr. Stewart.
